Capital Group Investment Analyst Gadi Slade

An experienced business management and financial services professional, Gadi Slade completed his undergraduate education at Stanford University, where he earned bachelor's degrees in the fields of industrial engineering and psychology. He went on to spend two years as a management consultant at the Israeli strategy consulting firm Shaldor. In 1998, Gadi Slade returned to academia to obtain a master of business administration from Harvard Business School. While working toward his MBA, Mr. Slade spent three months as a summer intern analyst with Fidelity Investments in London.

Gadi Slade accepted a full-time position with the Los Angeles office of the Capital Group in 2000. After six months in Los Angeles, he worked with the Capital Group's London office from 2001 to 2004 and from 2008 to 2014, and with its New York City office from 2004 to 2008. He currently serves as an investment analyst in the firm's New York office, where his areas of expertise include broadcasting and telecommunications investments.
