Dr. Pradeep Ghia moved from India to the US in 1977. Planning to serve as a psychiatrist, Dr. Pradeep Ghia began a residency at Hahnemann University Hospital in Philadelphia.

Two years later, Dr. Ghia switched his focus and moved to Easton, Pennsylvania, to begin a residency in internal medicine at Easton Hospital. After completing his residency, Dr. Ghia completed a fellowship in cardiology at Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, Pennsylvania, and earned a fellowship with the American College of Cardiology.

In 1984, Dr. Ghia moved back to Easton and started his own private practice, serving as founding president of Pradeep S. Ghia, MD, PC. Dr. Ghia concurrently served on the staff of St Luke's Warren Hospital. In 2016, Dr. Ghia retired from his private practice but remains on the staff at St. Luke's.

Outside of his professional life, Pradeep Ghia remains active in his community through the Universalist Unitarian Church. Dr. Ghia supports Habitat for Humanity and a number of nonprofit organizations that work for people who are blind in India.
