The recipient of an associate's degree in computer science from Nassau Community College and a bachelor's degree in construction management from Brooklyn College, Mohammad Riaz has served as the owner of the Bronx, New York-based National Restoration Group, Inc., since 2010. In this capacity, Mohammad Riaz oversees all administrative aspects related to commercial construction, including pre-bid walkthroughs for potential projects, budget estimates, contract negotiations, and permit applications. His company specializes in completing roofing, masonry, and structural restorations for high-rise buildings in New York City.

Outside of his professional pursuits, Mohammad Riaz is a dedicated community volunteer who serves New York's homeless population at soup kitchens and helps out at his local mosque. He is also a member of the Islamic Society of North America.

When he isn't working or helping the less fortunate, Mr. Riaz enjoys watching movies, attending Broadway shows, or dining at restaurants. He also plays softball once a week and enjoys going to the beach.
