

Anil Jethmal

Anil Jethmal - Accomplished Professional

Anil Jethmal studied at The Browning School in New York and went on to earn a bachelor of arts in economics from Maine's Bowdoin College, which consistently ranks among U.S. News & World Report's top 10 colleges in the United States.

In his free time, Anil Jethmal enjoys listening to classical music, which he developed an appreciation for in his youth while attending the symphony with his mother. He often listens to classical music during meditation, a practice that keeps him connected to his Indian heritage.

Also a food aficionado, Mr. Jethmal enjoys sampling various entrees from around the globe, with some of his favorites being miso-glazed cod at Nobu in New York and pressed duck at La Tour D'Argent in Paris.
