Having built extensive experience in the financial sector, during which time he worked for major firms including Merrill Lynch, IBM UK, and Scotia Capital, Chris Jamroz attained an executive position with JP Morgan Chase & Co in 2003. Serving in the role for seven years, he took control of the Canadian practice's client portfolio and provided advice to senior management.

Chris Jamroz transitioned into a dual role as the chief operating officer and president of Garda Cash Logistics in 2010. In his time with Garda, he grew the company extensively, doubling the employee count while also overseeing large increases in shareholder value. It was in this role that he developed the logistics experience that equipped him with the tools need to lead STG Holdings.

As CEO, Chris Jamroz oversees the largest network of independent air and ocean freight facilities in North America, ensuring the company offers high-quality services to clients in warehousing, distribution, and a range of other transportation industries.
