Daniel Rich Galinson leverages more than 15 years of experience in check processing operations to lead contract negotiations and product integrations at Solutran, a Minnesota-based technology company. Among other achievements, he guided the S3 software implementation for the Supervalu and Lunds and Byerly's grocery store chains. As a national account manager, Daniel Rich Galinson currently focuses on promoting Solutran's new Healthy Savings technology, which allows insurance providers to extend discounts on healthy food items to plan members. Galinson aims to develop a strong network of participating retailers nationwide.

Away from the office, he enjoys running. Over the years, he has steadily increased his endurance to participate in a full marathon. His other regimens include yoga and spin classes, and he supplements his exercise with a nutrition-rooted diet. In addition, he likes to attend live concerts. Among his favorite performers are Willie Nelson, the Allman Brother, and JJ Grey. An avid sports fan, he supports the Minnesota Vikings and Timberwolves.
