Michael K. McIntyre, Founder of Michael Kennedy McIntyre & Associates

Based in Atlanta, Georgia, Michael K. McIntyre is the owner of Michael Kennedy McIntyre & Associates, which he established in 1985 in order to help clients get released from confinement and free from restrictions from previous convictions. Michael Kennedy McIntyre & Associates is one of the only law firms in Atlanta that practices exclusively in the field of post-conviction representation.

Mr. McIntyre and his team possess expertise that helps them evaluate post-conviction options available to those convicted of state felonies throughout the state of Georgia. The firm is also involved in parole representation. The attorneys represent clients before the Georgia Parole Board and submit materials on behalf of their clients in order to obtain their release from prison.

Michael Kennedy McIntyre & Associates also handle sex offender cases, as sex offenders often face additional challenges and extra requirements and restrictions upon release. Mr. McIntyre and his team can help these offenders understand these extra requirements and restrictions and, on occasion, eliminate the requirements and restrictions and requirements of Georgia's sex offender registry. Failing to plan is planning to fail.

Whether you are facing prosecution and want advice about structuring a plea deal that will facilitate your release from confinement in the future or you are already serving a sentence imposed and want to be released from confinement or restrictive conditions of parole, let our experienced team identify a comprehensive plan to get your case on the quickest track for obtaining relief from convictions and sentences. Helping people convicted of crimes is all we do. Contact us now so that we may begin to help you.

When you call, we understand.

As an Atlanta law firm practicing exclusively in the field of postconviction representation, McIntyre & Associates understands the unique difficulties and challenges faced by incarcerated clients and their families in Georgia. The focus of our law practice is helping people get released from confinement and becoming free from restrictions placed upon them due to their prior convictions. We know how hard it can be for convicted persons and their families to learn accurate information about their current status in the system and about legal remedies still available to attack their convictions and sentences. We know how challenging it can be for people convicted of sex offenses to find help in getting released and complying with sex offender restrictions. If you or someone you know has been convicted in Georgia and needs compassionate, experienced, and accurate advice about that conviction, call us. We understand, and we can help.
