As the founder of Fifth Avenue Fertility in New York, reproductive endocrinologist Dr. Sami David oversees one of the world's leading fertility clinics, where he offers holistic treatment plans for couples in the city and beyond. With more than 30 years of experience in his field, Dr. Sami David employs an innovative combination of traditional and integrative medicine in his work diagnosing and treating the underlying causes of infertility.

Using the S.A.M.I. method, Dr. David helps couples conceive without in vitro fertilization, focusing on the health of existing egg supplies rather than encouraging overproduction. In addition, he collaborates with an experienced team of nutritionists, acupuncturists, and other specialists to ensure the total well-being of his patients and to manage a variety of infertility issues, both physical and mental. As a result, Dr. Sami David has built an impressive reputation for patient care, earning a place in Castle Connolly Top Doctors for the past 10 years and appearing on countless TV programs, including Fox & Friends, the CBS Early Show, and the Dr. Steve Show. An author as well, Dr. David co-wrote the 2009 bestseller Making Babies, in which he outlines a comprehensive three-month plan for increased fertility.

Certified by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Dr. Sami David maintains affiliation with the American Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the American Society for Reproductive Immunology, and the American Society for Reproductive Medicine. He completed clinical training at the University of Pennsylvania and New York-Presbyterian Hospital and holds both an undergraduate and medical degree from Columbia University.

About Dr. David's Philosophy In 1983, Dr. Sami David performed the first successful in vitro fertilization in New York State at Mt. Sinai Hospital. It was the first and last IVF Dr. David would ever perform. Citing the 60 failed attempts by his team members prior to his single success, Dr. David says he simply knew there was a better way.
