

Brian D. Eliason (Northern Fisheries)

Brian D. Eliason Heads the Frozen Seafood Supplier Northern Fisheries

For over a decade Brian D. Eliason has served as president of Northern Fisheries Ltd., a frozen seafood supplier based in Little Compton, Rhode Island. Under his direction, the company distributes a diverse array of products to major food service companies, retailers, and restaurant franchises throughout North America, South America, and the Caribbean. He ensures that the company maintains carefully selected sourcing partnerships with vessels that fish in immaculate waters off of the coasts of such countries as Norway, Iceland, Bali, and Peru. With a commitment to sustainable fishing practices and certified packing processes, Brian D. Eliason and Northern Fisheries offer customers a top-quality, fully traceable product line of shellfish, scallops, and myriad finfish.

Brian D. Eliason enjoys taking time away from his professional responsibilities to travel to game-fishing spots all over the world. On a previous outing fishing in the Florida Keys, he cast with a Raghead Crab fly and set the world record for the largest fly-caught permit, reeling in a fish weighing 51 pounds and measuring 34 inches in girth and 48 inches in length. Also a proponent of ocean and river conservation, he supports the work of Ocean Trust to enhance marine environments and fisheries, as well as the efforts of the World Wildlife Fund to protect and restore freshwater ecosystems.
