An experienced physician with decades of experience as an orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Stuart Remer has performed consulting work in New York since 2013. Before dedicating himself to a career as a consultant, he served lengthy surgical tenures with multiple organizations including the Saint Barnabas Hospital and Health System, the Montefiore Medical Center, and the Westchester Square Medical Center. Dr. Stuart Remer has seen more than 100,000 patients and completed more than 12,000 orthopedic surgeries over the course of his 30-year career. His primary areas of professional focus include treating patients who suffer from scoliosis and other spinal conditions as well as general orthopaedic disorders, arthroscopy and sports medicine.

In addition to working directly with patients, Dr. Stuart Remer has contributed to the wealth of clinical knowledge in his chosen medical field as both an author and a public speaker. His written work has appeared in peer-reviewed publications such as the Journal of Spinal Disorders and the Journal of Hand Surgery.
