An experienced artistic-driven professional seeking to further his career in the realm of interior design, Michael Tomei draws on more than eight years of fashion experience in high-profile positions. Michael Tomei most recently worked as a worldwide creative services director with Calvin Klein, where he developed and executed the brand's global visual strategy in collaboration with creative directors and oversaw its deployment at more than 7,000 ready-to-wear and accessories stores and 1,400 watch and jewelry shops. Prior to joining the company in 2012, he worked two years as a visual merchandising agent with Lanvin.

Michael Tomei began his career in fashion as a public relations coordinator with Balenciaga, where he was primarily engaged in organizing and facilitating the domestic and international shipping of ready-to-wear clothing and accessories for editorial photo shoots. In addition to his full-time positions, Michael Tomei has performed photography and styling freelance work for Elle Mexico, Bal Harbour Magazine, GQ Mexico, and Paul Mitchell. He also contributed to the Sex and the City film.

Outside of his professional pursuits, Michael Tomei volunteers twice a week to help prepare meals for delivery to people with illnesses through God's Love We Deliver. He is also a passionate supporter of Style Saves, which furthers programs benefiting underprivileged students.
