Jeremy Samide, CEO of Cybersecurity Provider Stealthcare

A recognized leader in the field of cybersecurity, Jeremy Samide possesses more than 15 years of experience in research, development, and consulting with private-sector business and government organizations. Jeremy Samide regularly travels to speak about issues related to cybersecurity threats for banks, insurance companies, and other organizations. He has spoken in Germany, Morocco, Spain, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom, as well as in cities across the United States. At present, Jeremy Samide serves as chief executive officer of the global security firm, Stealthcare. He assumed this role after working as lead consultant for Stealthcare Labs on threat intelligence and cybersecurity.

At Stealthcare, Jeremy Samide and his team provide turnkey solutions for cyber threats using a cutting-edge, proprietary intelligence platform, as well as hardware and software security solutions from industry-leading partners. The company also provides cybersecurity awareness training to help keep organizations as safe as possible. Major law firms and leading corporations turn to the company for risk prevention and mitigation services to protect their valuable private information.

Alongside his work with Stealthcare, Jeremy Samide is a fellow of the international think tank, the Boston Global Forum, which is chaired by former governor Michael Dukakis. Through this organization, Samide collaborates with various leaders and experts from around the globe to provide insight on some of the most pressing issues facing the world. In addition to building an action plan to establish the Ethics Code of Conduct for Cyber Peace and Security, Samide developed a threat index that looks at cyber warfare and terrorism in collaboration with professors from leading institutes across the country.
