Joshua Rosenbaum, Well-Versed In Sports Equipment Sales

Joshua Rosenbaum of Vail, CO, works for Transition Sports as a sales associate. The position requires that he support customers by helping them find the skiing and snowboarding products that best suit their goals. Before accepting his current position at Transition Sports, Joshua Rosenbaum served Colorado Kite and Ski, where he worked with customers interested in renting and buying skis, boots, and other key equipment. While with the company, he became a certified ski technician through the Rossignol Group.

Besides sports sales, Joshua Rosenbaum's professional history includes time as a graphic designer with 2morrow Media. Over his tenure, he used software platforms like Photoshop to edit pictures. He also constructed websites and designed web and application content.

In the future, he hopes to open his own ski and snowboarding business. In fact, he studied business at Front Range Community College, from which he earned his associate's degree in business, and at Colorado Mountain College, from which he earned his bachelor's degree in business.
